

Supporting the Needs of Front-Line Workers

Steelcase Health is here for people. Our COVID-19 response addresses safety needs of front-line workers during this unprecedented time. Separation Screens aid infection-control efforts and offer a protective barrier between those who seek help and those who stand ready.

Freestanding Separation Screens

Providing space division and visual privacy or transparency – these freestanding acrylic screens suit healthcare check in, consultation and triage areas. They also work well in non-healthcare applications such as retail, banking and essential public domains. Use standing-height screens alone or group together to form larger partitions.

Screen panels arrive fully assembled, and are mounted offset of frames to allow for easy cleaning. Highly durable, these screens are available with optional cutouts so users can conveniently transfer documents and small items.
